Customer Reviews

Use the stamp kit contained here to create intriguing patterns for use in making gift wrap, birthday cards, book covers, boxes and others. Art, activities and puzzles are illustrated and described in this fine art guide for kids of all ages. -- Midwest Book Review this is SO nice! - it is a great primer in shapes, geometry- design, its good for refreshing the adult eye to observe patterns in architecture and nature for use in art activities - and for the young learning to apply patterns to their own designs. This would be a great gift for the younger creative child who has an artistic parent(s) who will enthusiastically supervise. A great field trip for young and old would be museums- anywhere really, to compare the patterns they see with the great stamp patterns included in this package. I could wish for a couple changes in the design of the book with it but overall this is an awesome package at such an affordable price- don't miss out on this for your budding artist (or yourself)! sooo much better than the dime store junk toys - this set will be useful a LONG WHILE in many applications for the whole family. I bought this for use in making cards for border designs and, as mentioned simply refreshing my eye to the wonders of pattern everywhere in our lives. It has a magnetic catch so when you close it- it snaps shut. a nice touch! I paid under $10.00 total, for my set.

Stamps were quite small.

Came as described and very prompt. The little stamps are great for polymer clay work.

The stamps in this boxed set are small but wonderful; I use them to experiment with creating patterns to use in my art work. I do freeform embroidery and use all sorts of fibers, papers, and found objects to create collages. Good for children or adults. Comes with one small black ink pad and a chart of pattern possibilities. Also included is a small, full color book called "Fun with Pattern" by Fifi Weinert. I was lucky enough to find a new copy of this kit for $2.00 at my local thrift store.
