

The book was found

The Monk's Haggadah: A Fifteenth-Century Illuminated Codex From The Monastery Of Tegernsee, With A Prologue By Friar Erhard Von Pappenheim (Dimyonot)

Synopsis

In 1489, a magnificent illustrated Passover Haggadah was sent as a bequest to the Monastery of Saint Quirinus at Tegernsee in southern Germany. Shortly afterwards, the monastery's librarian sent the book to a Dominican friar named Erhard von Pappenheim, a Hebraist and expert on Jewish practice, and asked him to write a prologue. In response, Erhard wrote a remarkable treatise that is arguably the earliest quasi-ethnographic account of Jewish practice in early modern Europe and an extraordinary window onto a fifteenth-century Christian perception of Jews and Judaism. The Monk's Haggadah brings together a facsimile edition of the codex in color, a critical edition of the Latin text of Erhard's prologue, an English translation of the Latin text, and a translation of the Hebrew text of the Haggadah. Additionally, the volume's editors provide historical context, explore the codicology, illustration, and patronage of the volume, and describe its Christian theological background. An absolutely unique document, this Haggadah stands to change many long-held conceptions about Jewish-Christian relations in the late Middle Ages and early modernity.

Book Information

Series: Dimyonot (Book 1)

Hardcover: 296 pages

Publisher: Penn State University Press; 1 edition (February 6, 2015)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 0271063998

ISBN-13: 978-0271063997

Product Dimensions: 7 x 1 x 10 inches

Shipping Weight: 1.8 pounds (View shipping rates and policies)

Average Customer Review: 3.5 out of 5 stars 2 customer reviews

Best Sellers Rank: #1,738,514 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #88 in Books > Religion & Spirituality > Judaism > Haggadah #1138 in Books > Textbooks > Humanities > Religious Studies > Judaism #1351 in Books > Religion & Spirituality > Judaism > Jewish Life

Customer Reviews

"This book wonderfully proves the value of collaborative research. The introduction describes how this collaboration came about and is by itself a little masterpiece. Like a detective story, it chronicles how the researchers gradually came to recognize that the Haggadah and its Latin and very Christian preface constitute one of the most remarkable testimonies in both image and word of the complex character of Jewish-Christian relations in the fifteenth century. Yet the manuscript, even after the collaborators' fascinating findings, remains enigmatic and indeed mysterious. This is simply an extraordinary book about an extraordinary artifact.

•William Jordan, Princeton University

"Jewish-Christian relations in the Middle Ages represent a challenging and often painful subject that defies easy categorization in terms of what too often is called, in anodyne, even evasive, terms, the Judeo-Christian tradition. This brilliant collaboration between three experts in their respective fields uncovers an exceptional, yet also exemplary, case of a hybrid haggadah that, although written by a Jewish scribe, was adapted in a variety of ways for use by Christian monks both during and after its production. A testimony to interdisciplinary research, the book uncovers an astonishing episode in the long history of Christian Hebraism. University professors, Christian humanists, Bavarian monks, and anonymous artists are the cast of characters that make of this study a fascinating piece of detective work and a reminder of the complexity of any effort to capture historical truth. Especially admirable is the editors' willingness to consider multiple solutions to the conundrum the Tegernsee Haggadah presents. The reader is invited to think along with the editors. In the process, a world of Jewish-Christian interaction more complex than commonly imagined is revealed with precision and eloquence.

•Jeffrey Hamburger, Harvard University

"The Tegernsee Haggadah in Munich is a truly unique book. This edition reproduces an unusual illuminated manuscript. It also includes both a detailed description of the book and a meticulous reconstruction of its production, its history, and its eventual function as amazingly enough a study book for monks in order to familiarize themselves with Jewish rituals. Containing a Latin treatise, it was supposed to teach the monks to read the Haggadah within the framework of contemporary blood libels. David Stern, Sarit Shalev-Eyni, and Christoph Marksches leave no stone unturned in unraveling the story of an extraordinary artifact, and the somewhat unusual role a book could play in the Jewish-Christian coexistence of late medieval Europe.

•Katrin Kogman-Appel, Ben-Gurion University of the Negev

"The Monk's Haggadah is at once a beautiful facsimile edition of a remarkable Haggadah manuscript and also a collaborative edition, translation, and analysis of text, image, and material object. . . . This is the first full-length study of the manuscript, and David Stern's introduction describes the collaboration that brought the volume into being. It makes for a great story, and Stern tells it as the intellectual adventure it clearly was. Fourteen years in the making, The Monk's Haggadah represents quite an achievement and demonstrates the power of multidisciplinary collaborative work.

•Deeana Klepper, H-Net

"In

his moving and surprisingly gripping introduction to The Monk's Haggadah, Harvard scholar David Stern describes the journey that he and his talented co-editors, Christoph Marksches and Sarit Shalev-Eyni, took in uncovering the mysteries of the manuscript and creating this handsome critical version. . . . Together with transcriptions and translations of the Prologue, text, and marginalia, the new book contains marvelous essays that make it a comprehensive account of the 500-year life of this mysterious manuscript.

•Philip Getz, Jewish Review of Books “A timely and necessary reminder of the value of humanistic scholarship conducted in the spirit of both exacting inquiry and good faith.

•Adam S. Cohen, Common Knowledge “This remarkable publication comprises a 15th-century illuminated Haggadah, its unique Latin preface, translations, accounts of its discovery and study, and explanations of the unusual text. The codex, with its elegant calligraphy, underwent significant modifications.

•R. A. Boisclair, Choice “Offers a superb example of what can happen when scholars who specialize in different but parallel histories of the book combine their efforts to uncover how competing cultures worked together and against each other to create books. . . . This volume is an impressive model for inclusive manuscript studies than can help us understand more clearly the complex relationships between separate but adjoining historical communities of the book.

•Eric J. Johnson, Sixteenth Century Journal

David Stern is the Moritz and Josephine Berg Professor of Classical Hebrew Literature at the University of Pennsylvania. Christoph Marksches is the Chair of Ancient Christianity at Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin. Sarit Shalev-Eyni is Professor of History of Art at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

An amazing work - the research and collaboration that it took to give readers a glimpse of the interplay between the Christian and Jewish world in the fifteenth century - made me take pause. Insightful and illuminating my parents need it, This is my first review ever. This product is so sharp it is scary! Best investment ever at a great price! just fine. Nice and valuable. Received as described.

Download to continue reading...

The Monk's Haggadah: A Fifteenth-Century Illuminated Codex from the Monastery of Tegernsee, with a prologue by Friar Erhard von Pappenheim (Dimyonot) Codex Wallerstein: A Medieval Fighting Book from the Fifteenth Century on the Longsword, Falchion, Dagger, and

Wrestling The Playfair Hours: A Late Fifteenth Century Illuminated Manuscript from Rouen (V & a, L. 475-1918) Good Night & God Bless [II]: A Guide to Convent & Monastery Accommodation in Europe - Volume Two: France, United Kingdom, and Ireland (Good Night & ... Convent & Monastery Accommodation in Europe) Florentine Codex: Books 4 and 5: Book 4 and 5: The Soothsayers, the Omens (Florentine Codex: General History of the Things of New Spain) Monk's Music: Thelonious Monk and Jazz History in the Making "Über die Verbindung von Text und Musik: "Don Juan" von Richard Strauss (German Edition) Segelreise im pazifischen Ozean: von Neuseeland in die Inselwelt von Fidschi und Vanuatu nach Australien (Twiganauten Geschichten- mit allen Sinnen reisen 8) (German Edition) The Szyk Haggadah: Freedom Illuminated The Illuminated Haggadah Richard Codor's Joyous Haggadah: A Children and Family Cartoon Haggadah for Passover Seder The New American Haggadah: Haggadah Shel Pesah The Friar and the Knight: Bartolome de Olmeda and Cortez Gregor Mendel: The Friar Who Grew Peas The Friar's Map of Ancient America 1360 AD: The Story of Nicholas of Lynn and the Franciscan Map of America (Guernsey Museum Monograph, Multicultural Heritage Series No. 3) Painting and Experience in Fifteenth-Century Italy: A Primer in the Social History of Pictorial Style (Oxford Paperbacks) An Oak Spring Flora: Flower Illustration from the Fifteenth Century to the Present Time- A Selection of the Rare Books, Manuscripts and Works of Art in the Collection of Rachel Lambert Mellon (Vol 3) The Renaissance in the Fields: Family Memoirs of a Fifteenth-Century Tuscan Peasant Empire of Things: How We Became a World of Consumers, from the Fifteenth Century to the Twenty-First The Origins of the Modern World: A Global and Ecological Narrative from the Fifteenth to the Twenty-first Century, 2nd Edition (World Social Change)

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help