Synopsis

Don't want to get a job? Is that what I heard? You can start your own business like Mark Zuckerberg. Anyone can do it, anyone at all, But it won't be easy; most start with a crawl. A simple idea inside of your head, Until it's so strong it keeps you from bed. Up thinking all night, about making it real, And all of the fun, how good it'll feel. If you keep up your faith, lock your eyes on the prize, And travel the road, all the lows and the highs, Success will find you at some point, I'm sure. Don't believe me? Just ask any entrepreneur! The perfect gift for the recent grad, this book will give them all the advice they never learned in school and prepare them for life in the real world. I really wish I could have read it before I bought it. Kind of lame story. I was truthfully expecting a more of cute or funny story line. I still gave it to my graduate; but it didn't really have the fun response I was thinking when I ordered it.

message in book is about death and taxes. I thought it would be more insightful and thoughtful.

depressing

It's a cute concept and the poetry is whimsical and irreverent, but the book is so poorly printed and some of the pages are so dark so that the print on those pages is illegible.

It was a great gift for a graduate. The book is hilariously funny and true! I wish someone told me these things when I graduated.

I was hoping for more out of this book. I wanted it to be funnier! Talking about taxes and DMV...?? College grads know about that already. Would have been better talking about buying a house, making investments and networking, maybe? Kinda feel silly giving this to my sister who just graduated as she knows all this stuff already.

Cute, but dated references. Couldn't really give this to a person "under a certain age", since they would get various references. Go with the Seuss original.

Great book, but no warning not to use sharpies so writing bled through book and book cover, use pens only apparently. Still a funny book for grads

I enjoyed reading this book. It's full of laughs and is the perfect graduation gift for an individual with a good sense of humor!! I've read all of the books from this author and his is comically amazing. The illustrations are colorful and never a disappointment. I will be watching out for the next book by him.
