Turkish Delights (1Night Stand)

Synopsis

The fifteen year age difference between Elle Kensington, expatriate American executive and Emre Demir, son of Istanbul's most successful businessmen, has not kept them from becoming fast friends as they toured Istanbul together. But the time has come for him to return to the U.S. to finish his master's degree, and she has just been named CEO of the pharmaceutical company that brought her to Turkey in the first place. Elle adores her adopted country, and is alarmed to find herself falling in love with the young man who's been her impromptu guide for the last few months. She knows they can never be. She will return home to California within a month, leaving behind all she loves about the ancient city. In a rare fit of spontaneity, Elle has contracted with Madame Eve's 1Night Stand dating service, hoping to find a way to forget the dark, handsome young man who has captured her heart. Little does she know what awaits her in the ancient recesses of the Ottoman palace turned luxury hotel under the hands of her one-night stand masseur.

This short and hot book by Liz Crowe is wonderful glimpse into the Deniz family. Ella is a strong professional woman, working for a pharmaceutical company brings her to Istanbul where she immerses herself into her job. Ella has come to love the city during her time in Istanbul. She meets Emre while exploring the city. Ella finds herself with a magnetic attraction to a Emre, a striking you man almost 15 years her junior. Emre is determined to prove to Elle that he is more than his age and Elle is convinced that age is all that matters. When her friends suggest Madame Evangeline's 1 Night Stand dating service - she is resistant, but ultimately gives in. This is a fun tie in with a very hot scene! When Ella finally lets go and allows herself to see the Emre for him and what he has to offer her. You quickly find yourself rooting for them to be together. I love that she has the strength to admit when she's wrong; she allows herself to "jump" and take what she wants. There is great secondary character development, including Ella's assistant, Caleb. This glimpse into Caleb makes Blue Cruise is a must read after Turkish Delights.

Reviewed by ShylaBook provided by the publisher for review Review originally posted at Romancing the Book This is not your average scorching cougar tale. I love my heroines strong, and Elle was a one ball busting | well you know the phrase! * grins* I mean that in the nicest way possible. At the top of the pharmaceutical game Elle's been playing in the sandbox with the big boys for so long her love life has suffered. Not every man can handle the demands of a high profile job, or a woman with self confidence, a game plan, and a pay check bigger than theirs. But I digress. After being stationed in Istanbul for a few years, Elle's last few months in the country are turned upside down when she meets her sexy, native Emre. She wants to drown in his dark eyes and lick every delectable inch of his olive-colored skin. Problem is, at forty she's much older and has been out of the game so long she's lost her swag. Instead of telling him how she feels she books a night with the fabulous Madame Eve at One Night Stand. The surprise she receives in return will warm your hot and nether regions. winks Emre is delicious and intoxicating like a strong Turkish cup of coffee. It's easy to imagine falling for him. Especially, with such a beautiful backdrop. Ms. Crowe can paint an amazing picture. She constructed characters I cared about with some very carefully chosen words. This short left me completely fulfilled it won't be the last I read by her. I highly recommend picking it up.

In Liz Crowe's Turkish Delights, #1 the author brings forth the issues of mixing faith based families and accepting that inevitability in favor of being with the one you love most. This book brings forward that which many cannot accept today. The ability to love and accept the differences in a relationship. This book is a story of love and passion between a man and woman from different walks of life. In this particular case the woman is older than the man. She of course is not at all interested in a relationship with a younger man. That is until she meets up with him on date with him. From there things get very interesting. Will their age difference be the driving force to take them apart? Will his family be willing to accept an older woman as their son's life partner? Well, to find that out, pick up this book and read it!

This is such a sexy story and my wonderful introduction to the series, Turkish Delights. Elle is a super confident, smart, witty & attractive woman - who just happens to run a world renowned Pharmaceutical company. Her work brings her to Istanbul where she immerses herself into her job and learning more about the amazing city & culture she has come to love. The guide, in her journey to learn more, is Emre. She finds herself developing feelings for him but lets their age difference get in the way. When her friends suggest Madame Evangeline's 1 Night Stand dating service - she is hesitant at first, but ultimately decides to give it a shot :) I loved this story and it is one of my favorite from the series. Emre is determined to prove to Elle that he is more than his age & Elle is convinced that age is all that matters. When she finally lets go and allows herself to see the man, not the age, she realizes what an idiot she's been. I love that she has the strength & courage to admit when she's wrong and to also throw caution to the wind and take what she wants. Great secondary character development & introduction. It allowed me, the reader, to become invested in not just Emre & Elle's story, but the entire cast as a whole. Blue Cruise is a must read after Turkish Delights.
